In this session A.VIDYULLATHA, women co-ordinator of ECE addressed the gathering and introduced the resource person Mrs. A. Praveena, HR, UST GLOBAL, Bangalore, to the gathering. Later the resource person discussed with the students how to the women must be bold enough to face the society and suppress the surrounding situations

In this session the resource person Mrs.A.Praveena,HR,UST GLOBAL,Bangalore, discussed "MARKET LIMITATIONS ON WOMENS CAREER" with the students

She insisted in her speech that 55 of the 173 observed economies have at least one law interfering with women's economic opportunities. There are a total of 943 legal gender differences within the 173 economies. Women encounter gender-based job restrictions in 100 economies

She also added to her speech that There exist no laws specifically protecting women from domestic violence in 46 of the economies covered by law, husbands can prohibit their wives from working in 18 of the examined economies. Legal gender inequality leads to fewer girls attending secondary school, less working women, a diminished amount of women-owned businesses and a higher gender wage gap. In the past two years, 65 economies passed 94 reforms growing women's economic opportunities

She revealed in her speech that Of the 173 addressed economies, women face disadvantages in every last one of them when it comes to the seven indicators listed above. In 32 of the economies, married women cannot apply for a passport in the same way as married men; in 30 economies, women cannot choose where to live; in 18, they cannot obtain a job without permission; and, in 17 of these economies, women cannot travel outside their homes the same way as men.
